Meralco wins TRO

GSIS to appeal, vows to fight on

THE LOPEZ GROUP HAS WON ANOTHER ROUND in its battle to retain control of Manila Electric Co. (Meralco), succeeding in getting the Court of Appeals to issue an order restraining the Securities and Exchange Commission from acting on a plea by the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) to overturn the election of the Meralco board.

A GSIS official said the state pension fund would immediately seek review from the courts, adding that the GSIS would not let up in its campaign to win the "reinstatement" of the country's largest electricity distribution utility.

The appellate court's temporary restraining order, to be in force for the next 10 days, was issued only minutes after the corporate watchdog adjourned a hearing during which Meralco was asked to explain its defiance of an SEC subpoena issued under directing Meralco to submit the unpublished proxy votes of the Lopez in last Tuesday's election.

"It's status quo on the validity of the Meralco board... we will be filing our comments accordingly," said General Lubnan, the SEC commission secretary, after he received a copy of the TRO.

He said SEC hearings and decisions on the issue of illegal proxies

Miriam now trains guns on absent, late senators

By Cynthia D. Salinas

AFTER GOING AFTER colleagues in the Senate who endorse commercial products, Sen. Miriam Defensor-Santiago is now training her guns on senators posting frequent absences and tardiness.

On Wednesday, Sen. Miriam Defensor-Santiago introduced a resolution, now before the Senate, that would allow her to file charges against senators who are absent or late, and to file charges against senators who are absent or late.

On Wednesday morning, the Senate adopted the new rule, which states that absence will be deemed as a sign of a senator's neglect of his or her duties.

Legislation has often been proposed to force a senator to show up for the Senate, but this is the first time that a senator has introduced a bill to force a senator to show up for the Senate.

Senators will be given 15 minutes to show up for the Senate, and if they do not show up, they will be considered absent.

The Senate also passed another resolution which provides that senators will be given 15 minutes to show up for the Senate, and if they do not show up, they will be considered absent.

Under the new rule, a senator's absence will be deemed as a sign of a senator's neglect of his or her duties.

"We are looking forward to the day when the Senate will be able to do its job without the need for a resolution to force a senator to show up for the Senate," Sen. Defensor-Santiago said.

Cops cite women hostages for bravery, cooperation

By Alvin Puga in Manila and Teresa Rojas, Senior Correspondent

POLICE DID A "GOOD JOB" RESCUING the 100,000 Philippine hostage-taking incident, the national police leadership said yesterday.

"They were able to save lives from and protect the passengers left inside [the bus]," Philippine National Police (PNP) spokesperson Chief Supt. Minar Barolado said in a press conference.

Barolado said the 100,000 police, led by Lt. Gen. Nicanor Mangalima, did "what was best for the kind of hostage situation. The rank and file of the PNP was indeed what was necessary and what was expected."

On Thursday at around 1:45 p.m., the 100,000 police identified by police as the 100,000 police passengers of a 100,000 bus in Lobo, Pangasinan.

The 100,000 police stated when Mangalima, who was negotiating with the 100,000 police, said to be "nervously distressed."

During the struggle, one of the 100,000 police boarded the bus. Mangalima fired a shot at the bus which caused the 100,000 police to be "nervously distressed."

The 100,000 police, armed with a 200-caliber and a 100-caliber, had earlier shot a passenger and wounded two others.

Five women

In the afternoon, Mangalima told the 100,000 police that the 100,000 police also used their 100,000 police to the 100,000 police who "completely cooperated" with the 100,000 police during the rescue.

Mangalima, 50-year-old, was in the 100,000 police, 100,000 police, 100,000 police.

"I was surprised by not shooting the 100,000 police during the 100,000 police when we were negotiating with the 100,000 police," he said.

Conceal, a wife of one of the 100,000 police's 100,000 police, said to the 100,000 police where she had access to the 100,000 police.

Unstable

At around 6:15 p.m., Mangalima parked a 100,000 police bus, 100,000 police, 100,000 police to the 100,000 police.

"The 100,000 police, who did not carry a gun, to board the bus."

Mangalima, who had his 100,000 police on his 100,000 police, said he had 100,000 police.

The typhoon has weakened somewhat, with 205 kph over the coast and gustiness at 220 kph, the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration said.

By Monday morning, it is expected to be 130 kilometers southeast of Oda, Japan. While it was unlikely to make a landfall or directly affect the country, the weather bureau said the storm could bring in low-pressure clouds and isolated rain and downpours in the next few days.

Aggie department eyes expansion of Mindanao rubber plantations

By Beverly T. Matibato

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE is targeting a 21,400-hectare expansion of rubber plantations in Mindanao to take advantage of a growing global demand for the commodity.

But agriculture chief Arthur Yap said this expansion will not affect the vital rice plantations in the island of a world supply crunch.

In a press conference for the upcoming Rubber Conference in Manila on June 5-7, Yap said the region will have many support opportunities for rubber, and that government incentives is needed to speed up the transfer of rubber plantations.

"We need early on whether the lands where rubber can be planted," said Yap.

The 21,400-hectare target for expansion will be located in Northern Mindanao, Davao Region, Cotabato region, the Autonomous Region of Muslim Mindanao (ARMM), plus additional areas in the Zamboanga Peninsula and surrounding areas: Cotabato, Comilla, Sultan Kudat, Isabela, Zamboanga, and General Santos.

Some rubber plantations are also now being located in the Misamis (Misamis Occidental, Misamis Oriental, and Misamis Oriental) areas.

At present, the Philippine rubber plantations area for rubber was at 113,958 hectares.

Of the product, 175,004 MT came from the Zamboanga Peninsula while 157,134 MT was produced in Mindanao.

Local rubber producers from the Philippine Rubber Industry Association (PRIA) said they can now providing support programs for farmers who might want to explore rubber production.

PRIA president Frank May Deo said they are currently putting up seed nurseries to ensure enough latex supply in the sector and giving training to increased farmers.

In 336 AD, he survived Bedouin raids, the Islamic conquest of Egypt, and wars between Egypt and Israel that turned the area into a barren zone.

Coptic Christians

Most of the monks here are Egyptian Coptic Christians, a minority faith in the more populous Arab-majority Egypt, which is about 90 percent Muslim. Most Christians in Egypt belong to the Coptic Orthodox church, which gives allegiance to its own Pope in Egypt, Alexandria.

Once closed off from invading Bedouins behind towering stone walls, the monks now open their doors, equipped with Coptic writing, to hundreds of tourists and pilgrims.

The monks raise chickens, grow fruit, and lead tour groups through the compound's 13th-century church, which is built above the oldest monk cell ever discovered, dating from the fourth century, the monks say.

St. Anthony's grave

Monks believe a recently discovered grave under the church is that of St. Anthony himself.

"When I came here, it was very primitive and totally isolated," monk Athanasios (1-Alexandria) said.

When he first arrived in the late 1960s, the only visitors were Egyptian soldiers discovering mines during Egypt's war with Israel. The monastery was near the front line of fighting in the west, which began in 1967.

Now, a new road through the desert brings hundreds of visitors, most from Europe and Russia.

Only the most zealous of the 120 monks at St. Anthony's deal with visitors. The others isolate themselves in their rooms to spend their days praying in the desert.

Following Anthony

One Australian monk is said to live in a cave above the monastery only coming down for six hours a week.

(Described in the article)

Christian monk, St. Anthony's cell into the desert around the year 260 AD and retired in the mountain caves around his desert cell.

He is considered to be one of the first Christians to withdraw completely from society, living in the desert with only animals for company.

The followers also had some other desert monks.

"I love the silence and I don't want to see anything but God," says Domestica of Antioch, a 14th-century Egyptian who has lived for the last few years in the monastery. "My life begins when I come here." The hour so much about the way and what things in the world... people now just want a school day with God.

The monastery, about 130 km (80 miles) southeast of Cairo, is now attracting many prospective monks but it plans to turn everyone down for now, in part to ensure that only the most dedicated remain.

Purity of heart

Only about 100 monks make a year on average, one of the most original interest, monks say.

"The fasting, work, and finding a wife, managing family problems—these are not monks' interests," he says. "The path to heaven is the opposite: to have three years, to make sure that one is alone."

In the monastery, monks made in black robes lead visitors through narrow paths between stone churches, monk cells, an ancient refectory monks say was built by the Roman emperor, Justinian, and a library containing over 1,700 manuscripts.

'Classic' monks at sunset

"It doesn't matter if we are monks, monks, or monks monks," says Athanasios, who concludes monks' visits with a hot word middle phrase: "What's important is the purity of your heart."

The "classic" monks only come down from the jagged mountains after the sun sets. The monks have the desert's silence, and only the howling of the wind across the sand can be heard.

ARRIVE ALIVE-SAFE DRIVE FOR LONGER LIFE

MAY 31, 2008
QUINTOS GRANDSTAND

HON. RAMON "NONG" REVILLA, JR.
Author
Mandatory Standard Helmet Bill (MNH)

Greetings in the Motorcycle Development Program Participants Association (MOPPA)

I join you in your "Arrive Alive-Safe Drive For Longer Life" event program that aims to promote road safety and respect for motorcycle enthusiasts.

As we see the rapid increase of motorcycle units in our streets, especially now when we recognize the practicality of motorcycles, the invaluable role of ensuring that only responsible drivers are put behind the handle bars equally rests upon all our shoulders.

This is why I am elated to see the various sectors involved in motorcycle transport, especially you the manufacturers and producers, coming together to formulate and implement measures that would make our roads and streets safer not only for motorists but also for pedestrians.

I am also very thankful for your support to Senate Bill 1063, or the Mandatory Standard Helmet Bill, and Senate Bill 2149, or the Kids-off-Motorcycles Bill, which I both authored. Once enacted into law, motorcycle-riding in the Philippines will be a safer undertaking for everyone.

Together, let us work towards motorcycle and road safety.

Congratulations and Mabuhay!

ERIC C. LEE
President
MCX Motor (Phils.), Inc.
Greetings from the family of MCX Motor (Phils.), Inc.

I would like to congratulate the MOPPA for pioneering another milestone in the Philippine motorcycle industry.

MCX believes in the necessity of educating the motorcycle riding community properly. The effectiveness and efficiency of motorcycle as a mode of transportation is beyond question. We see safe riding education as our responsibility in decreasing, if not totally eliminating road accident.

The importance of having the riding community learn about safety riding is not the end but the beginning of a safer riding atmosphere and we are dedicated in the pursuit of this goal.

On behalf of the MCX family, I would like to extend our appreciation to all the people, the government agencies and the men and women behind this effort for making this momentous event possible.

Respecting Salamat Po!

KIYOSHI KAWANAHARA
President
Suzuki Motor Philippines

Greetings from Suzuki and Congratulations to MOPPA

The motorcycle industry has grown exponentially over the past few years and along this growth is the alarming increase of road accidents. There are several factors that contribute to road accidents and one major and primary factor is human error. As a manufacturer, we believe that one way of decreasing road accidents is to increase public awareness on safety riding, not only for the motorcycle users but for every motorist on the road as well. With this, we are committing to this social responsibility and partnering with other institutions in the education of motorists on safety riding.

JOSEPH NISON
President
MOPPA

Road safety is the primary concern of MOPPA. But how well we are able to do this is a bigger task ahead of us.

In doing this kind of event, we believe that in some way, we are helping the motorcycle industry as a whole. Very hard lessons through education about safety and responsible driving. Let us all help. Because, if not eradicate the accidents involving motorcycles. DRIVE SAFELY!

RENE M. GENER
Vice President
MOPPA

The alarming statistics on motorcycle road accidents prompted the Motorcycle Development Program Participants Association (MOPPA) to initiate the launching of a Safety Carnival to promote road safety awareness. With the participation of its five (5) member companies, Honda, Kawasaki, Suzuki, Yamaha and MCX, MOPPA embarks on this activity to educate motorcycle riders on the importance of safety riding so they can fully utilize their bikes as efficient mode of transportation and at the same time discover the fun of riding. MOPPA has, wherein, been at the forefront of road safety. In 2007, several motorcycle roadshows were held in different cities with the emphasis on safety riding. As an officer of the organization, I strongly support activities geared towards safety as it is our obligation as an association of motorcycle manufacturers to provide safety in all its activities. This should make it our ultimatum to promote SAFETY RIDERS at all times.

HON. DANTE LAMIN
Assistant Secretary, Road Transport
Department of Transportation and Communication

My warmest greetings to all the road users as we celebrate the Road Safety Month this May. Road safety continues to be one of the nation's most serious public health issues. The loss of lives and property due to road accidents has significantly increased over the years.

The month of May has been designated as the Road Safety Month to raise awareness and to cultivate road safety consciousness among us Filipinos.

This year's theme "Arrive Alive-Safe Drive for Longer Life", shows the urgency of addressing the issues of road safety since this affects everyone.

Understanding and practicing road safety is everyone's concern—it could save your life, or someone else's.

Hence, I encourage everyone to get actively involved in this road safety advocacy by understanding this vital issue, campaigning for it and working towards promoting safety on our roads.

You can make a difference!

Mabuhay!

KAZUHIKO KOZOE
President and General Manager
Honda Philippines, Inc.

In behalf of Honda Philippines, I would like to congratulate the MOPPA on the occasion of this momentous event.

As an active member of the association and the leading player in the motorcycle manufacturing industry, we consider it an obligation to the society to promote the importance of road safety. With its versatility, economy and reliability, motorcycle is now an essential and effective alternative mode of transportation to many Filipinos. The need for a wider road safety awareness is necessary with increasing motorcycle population. In response to this, we have put up the Honda Safety Driving Center to cater to the needs of all two-wheel and four-wheel drivers.

Our deepest appreciation goes to all the riders, the government agencies and all the people involved in making this event a success.

Let's all work for safer roads in the future!

YOSHIHIRO TANIGAWA
President
Kawasaki Motors (Phils.) Corporation

We would like to congratulate the MOPPA for spearheading this road safety campaign.

Road safety is a concern that not only touches a small portion of society here in the Philippines. It touches almost everyone who owns a car, who crosses a road to go to work, who uses a street to get somewhere.

The sad thing is that not many people are aware or are schooled about road safety. For most of them, road safety simply means sticking to the proper lane or following traffic rules. They are not aware, for instance, about the proper use of head and body gears. As a result, many motorists leave the streets without protection, which results in accidents and worse, deaths.

With the number of accidents piling up on our busy roads, road safety is not only a road. It's an imperative!

JOSEPH TE
President
Eastworld Motor Industries Corp./Motorstar

It is a pleasure to congratulate the MOPPA for having this kind of event geared towards promoting road safety. It is a very timely endeavor due to rising accidents involving motorcycles.

TO ALL THE ROGERS, LIFE IS A PROCESSION. TREASURE, LIVE YOUR LIFE. LOVE YOUR LIFE. BE A RESPONSIBLE ROGER.

ALLAN B. SANTIAGO
Chairman
Research and Planning Committee-MOPPA
MCX Motor (Phils.), Inc.

SAFETY. Our primary consideration: everyone we embarked on our motor vehicle. I expect you in promoting safety not only during the celebration of road safety month.

TOGETHER LET US PROTECT OUR BELOVED MOTORCYCLE INDUSTRY BY PROMOTING SAFETY.

Art and law meet in this office

By Joy A. Gutera

Cebu City

Visiting lawyer Eric de Moya's office in Tacloban City may think they have stepped into an art gallery. They may be partly right when the room also displays the works of his art friend Marie Ortiz.

It all started in 2006 when Ortiz, a classroom in college, entered the Moya's office, bringing three works to give and ask. "He was in a room and... One of my and being a friend, I bought (them)..." the 30-year-old lawyer said. One of the drawings he brought later and the one he is now selling.

After a few months, Ortiz returned to Moya, bringing more works for him to buy. Again, the lawyer came in the room at his friend, who was then sending a drawing to his friend.

But the lawyer said he could not have given money all the time. "So I thought of something which will help him financially, and at the same time, allow him to practice his talent as an artist," he said.

He used his office as an art gallery, where "which is just good when we don't have one in the city." Since then, people have come to look at the paintings and buy them from there.

All of his paintings are currently priced ranging from P1,500 to P7,000, depending on the size and complexity of the subject being painted by Ortiz.

Although he got a commission for the paintings for Moya, de Moya said the scheme was not all about money. Having the paintings on display was his contribution to promoting art in the city.

"However, we help our people appreciate paintings done by a local artist like Ortiz," he said. De Moya asked Ortiz to change his artwork from just a picture of the street to something more and less about art, saying such paintings were what the public wants. The artist was also encouraged to show only abstract paintings but also those that prospective clients could easily appreciate and understand.

SINCE LOBOC RIVER in Bohol has something new to offer to guests who want to experience the rustic environment than his popularized river cruising in Loboc town, which is fast becoming a tourist destination.

The Bohol provincial government's aggressive promotion of tourism, along with the leadership of Chinese businessman and Philippine Special Ambassador to China Chao Chen, have made possible the river lighting project, which cost P1.5 million, to add to the list of his kind in the country.

Applauded by Mayor Mayor Leon Gallardo as "nature by day, boulevard by night," the river lighting project, which cost P1.5 million, to add to the list of his kind in the country.

At the project's launch, more than 400 lamps and floodlights were installed along the bank, green, blue, and white lights illuminate the river. Loboc River is known for the scenic view of the ancient Loboc Church toward Basil Hill.

The ancient Loboc Church itself is featured with floodlighting, creating a spectacular reflection in the river's calm waters. The two busy bridges crossing the river are also lit up.

Ortiz admitted that he had no formal painting course or training in any workshop. "I guess, I really love the color to draw, to sketch," he said.

Ortiz said he had been painting since he was in college but was not able to pursue fully his passion for art. He was encouraged by his mother, who said, "I also could not make it, which did not require me to paint or sketch," he said.

WB creates $1.2-B food fund

WASHINGTON—THE WORLD BANK HAS LAUNCHED A $1.2-billion program to fight the global food crisis, including $200 million in grants to poor countries facing the most dire needs.

The new program aims to help poor countries by making the harvest bigger (grains) and less wasteful (better storage). World Bank president Robert Zoellick said on Thursday.

The bank also said it would launch a special appeal for the global appeal to help poor countries to build up $1 billion fund next year.

Crop insurance and other measures for small farmers in developing countries will be part of the program, Zoellick said in a media teleconference from the sidelines of the Tokyo International Conference on African Development.

In preparation for a U.N.-sponsored food crisis summit in Rome next week, Zoellick said he was optimistic "we need for a close action plan."

Shortening commodity prices in the past year have helped developing countries, where food takes the most share of household income. Rising food prices have pushed food security and rising inflation, and a number of countries have lost jobs or exports to try to feed their own populations.

The World Bank's announcement came as a report by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization found that high global food prices are a new kind of crisis.

The cost of feeding the family will likely be higher than in the past decade, even though prices should start coming down, the report said.

Zoellick, a former top U.S. trade official, said his team made agriculture a priority in making the bank of the past year program was aimed at supporting food security and income.

More than 200 countries agreed to a "new deal" for global food policy at the spring meetings of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund in April.

The new $1.2-billion rapid-response facility supports rapid-response programs such as food for work, on-farm cash transfers and school feeding for the most vulnerable.

It also provides support for food production by supplying seeds and fertilizers, improving irrigation for small farmers, and providing budget support to offset world reductions in food and other commodities.

The first grant from the $200-million trust fund was approved on Thursday for Liberia, Haiti and Lebanon, each getting $20 million and Haiti receiving $20 million each and $20 million.

The grant recipients were identified as high priority based on rapid response assessments which have been completed in more than 20 countries, with another 15 ongoing.

Grants for Togo, Papua and Zimbabwe are expected to be awarded next month, the bank said.

"While urgent and long," Zoellick said, "that we immediately respond to the terrible human needs of the poor who are suffering that millions don't fall into this program again, but also that we build a production response to we can transition this into an opportunity as we can make the African farmers help not only their own, but people around the world."

Defense Secretary's senior policy adviser, Elizabeth Irons, welcomed the announcement.

"The World Bank has shown its proven leadership on the food crisis and the food security," she said. "We need to see more political momentum and action response from next week's meeting in Rome."

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Ed Markey, who will lead the U.S. delegation to the three-day 2008 world food security conference that opens on Thursday in Rome, said he would promote biofuels as a strategy to increase agricultural productivity.

According to a study released on Thursday by the U.S. General Accountability Office, agricultural productivity is up in sub-Saharan Africa, as measured by grain yield, in only about 40 percent of that of the rest of the world's developing countries, while the gap has widened over the years.

UN food report criticizes biofuels for rising prices

NEW YORK—AGRICULTURE SECRETARY Edward T. Zlotnik is preparing to walk into a business of criticism over U.S. biofuels policy when he meets with world leaders at the global food crisis summit.

Zlotnik took the criticism at a news conference on Thursday that discussed the food summit, planned for Rome. He said as an expert on the agriculture department had demonstrated the failure of production was responsible for only 2 to 3 percent of the increase in global food prices, while biofuels had reduced consumption of foods all by a billion barrels a day.

"We think that policy is in the United States of America—and certainly in the rest of the world, as we see the price of oil and petroleum increasingly driving up the price of food."

Zlotnik's remarks came as ethanol and biofuels are coming under increasing criticism from foreign leaders and members of Congress, as grocery prices climb in the developed world and not-so-secure and larger demands to grow the grain.

Just before his comments, a major report was released in Paris that argued countries to consider biofuels policies in the value of raising food prices.

"The energy security, environmental and economic benefits of biofuels production based on agricultural commodity feed stocks are at least modest, and sometimes even negative," says the report, prepared by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

The UN report, the global agriculture outlook through 2017, said prices for farm crops will remain substantially higher over the next decade because of fundamental changes in demand, though they will gradually decline from current levels.

Prices for vegetable oils are expected to remain the highest, 40 percent above the average from 1980 to 2007, wheat, corn and skin milk powder are expected to rise 30 to 40 percent, while soybeans, rapeseed and sunflower seeds are expected to rise 20 percent. Biofuel production is expected to rise 10 percent, but the report is expected to be more moderate.

The World Bank also announced that a special increase spending on agriculture and food programs in the future in the coming fiscal year, which begins on July 1, up from $4 billion.

All eyes turn to palace for Nepal king's eviction

KATHMANDU—HOLD-UP AFTER HIS high-walled Nepalese palace, Nepal's King Gyanendra kept a royal dinner Friday after a court martial indicted his ministers and gave him a two-year sentence.

While some say he will leave the palace, others say he will stay in the palace in the heart of Kathmandu in a city, although royal members and he are pushing his king and could leave Friday.

"The royal guard was taken down after Thursday night hours of a continuous assembly voting to strip him of his authority and then his kingdom," says a royal spokesman. "The king is a private citizen now."

"He is said to be leaving the palace on Friday," said a royal spokesman. He is the son of the royal monarch Nepal's king, Gyanendra, who was ousted in 2005.

The king has not yet been seen in the court martial assembly since he was ousted in 2005.

Stonehenge used as cemetery from the beginning

AT LEAST PART OF THE HISTORY of Stonehenge may have been as a cemetery, it was from the beginning of the monument to the dead.

New evidence from the site in Wiltshire, England, suggests that the monument was used as a cemetery from the beginning of the monument to the dead.

What appeared to be the head of a stone, a symbol of the monument, was found in the site, the archaeologists said, indicating that the site was probably a cemetery from the beginning of the monument to the dead.

Bautista nails Most Valuable Player trophy

By Cedric R. Tapia, Contributor

HER TEAM SMILED AHEAD IN THE THIRD SET, SEMAISON'S MARIA ROSARIO SORIANO powered on another week's victory against Ateneo.

The upset got the Lady Falcons within reaching distance of the title at 25-14, and it took a dominant display by the Lady Falcons throughout the Shakey's V-League Season 3 first conference.

The Lady Falcons, heavily relying on the seasoned baggage of losing two consecutive championship matches to two other teams, shocked their maiden V-League title over the Lady Eagles with a swift and decisive 25-13, 25-13, 25-17 victory yesterday that completed a sweep of the best-of-three series before another big round at The Arena in San Juan.

"The most exciting moment is there," said Ateneo coach Michael Liborio. "I never doubted this team, even after our two championship losses. They showed that after."

Adapted from Shakey's Player movement before the game, the 23-year-old Soriano, once a seldom-used guest player for University of Santo Tomas, proved her worth with 17 points, all on attack.

"Her (Soriano's) potential was always there and it finally came out in this tournament," Liborio said.

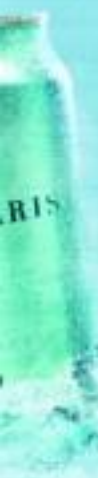

The Lady Falcons actually ended, 3-0, in the first set, before Bautista went to work, setting ball after ball that pushed Ateneo ahead, 11-12, a lead that was never relinquished.

Scoring heavily on Michele Sepulveda serve, the Lady Falcons jumped to a 7-2 lead early in the second set and coasted trouble-free thereafter.

"It will help our team (Soriano) fight hard despite Ateneo's advantage in skill and experience," Ateneo coach Michael Liborio said. "It's not my players learned a lot from this experience."

Earlier, San Sebastian, leading in the import and local attacker Ruffa Bautista, captured that place with this own victory of a sweep of games, 25-18, 25-14, 25-17.

Inflation seen at 9-year high in May

BSP says average price increase at 8.8-9.6%

By Steve C. Ordoñez

CONSUMER PRICES WERE ESTIMATED TO HAVE risen at the fastest pace in nine years this May due mainly to higher fuel prices and transport fares as well as the peso depreciation against the dollar, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas said yesterday.

BSP Governor Amado Tiamzon Jr. said the country's annual inflation rate likely would exceed 9 percent in May from the close year high of 8.3 percent posted in April. Tiamzon warned that the inflation targeting central bank would act promptly to prevent inflation pressures from getting out of hand.

Meanwhile, the BSP also expects that growth in domestic liquidity—a key indicator monitored by the central bank—rose to 1.6 percent in March year-on-year from 1.4 percent in February.

AMERICAN BANKING GIANT CITIGROUP sees the peso slipping to 44.50 against the US dollar in June before rebounding to 40 at the end of the year as the lack of overseas Filipino remittances and increased government revenue collection.

In a May 26 commentary written by Citigroup economist for the Philippines, Jon Trevisan, the bank said the foreign financial ratings agency likely keep its benchmark overnight borrowing rate unchanged at 5 percent for the rest of the year.

"But the risk of a limited disinflationary tightening cycle late in the year cannot be ignored," the report said.

Citigroup said last quarter's quarter growth in the Philippines would not boost market sentiment, especially since the regional currency market was being stressed by Japan over the Indonesian rupiah.

It was earlier reported that the domestic economy grew by only 0.2 percent per year in the first quarter, down from 7 percent a year ago and lower than the market consensus of 0.5 percent.

"Global risk day-to-day volatility against the Indonesian government's debt stays in the red but prices cannot be ignored as the peso's recent weakness has been highly correlated with the Indonesian rupiah," the report said.

Salesman's on peso stability and the Philippines' peso price index, it pointed out, could worsen if not addressed soon. The report added that the peso's rise in the oil bid has probably contributed to the negative investor perception for the peso and rupiah.

"And while Indonesia has taken steps to cut fuel subsidies, the Philippine government has not yet taken measures to slash its hefty rice subsidy costs," the report said. Looking ahead, Citigroup said that it expects modest recovery, but it expects the peso to continue to slip. It said that the peso would continue to slip to 44.50 this week given real estate corporate demand.

But it said the BSP would likely intervene to moderate the peso's depreciation.

The peso closed yesterday at 43.75 against the US dollar from Thursday's 43.625.

Meanwhile, Citigroup said the BSP's reported balance of payments surplus of $2.1 billion for this year would buoy the peso as it has in the past.

"This implies a lower currency premium which may be likely to be questioned by market participants. According to BSE, the peso's natural competitiveness remains mostly unchanged," Citigroup said.

"We think further peso weakness will in turn, external account as measured by the BOP surplus and rising US price index (national account) could start to impact peso underperformance. Without active intervention, this represents a growth loss to BOP's exchange rate policy," it said.

Citigroup said a stronger tax growth and privatization proceeds would likely support a favorable fiscal picture for the peso.

"Investment would provide an upside surprise in the second half of 2008 as there is potential in rate PDI billion from the sale of the government's holdings of 50% of the Alipha Group," it said.

Citigroup said after revenue taking from central price index also confirmed the government's monetary view on the following:

- For every 1 percentage point hike in interest rates, the government estimates a net revenue increase of P1 billion;
- A 1 percentage point increase in inflation could result in a potential P1 billion in revenue; and
- A P1 per barrel increase in oil prices could result in P1 billion of net revenues.

ally blind the subject in school. He would have gone via the line school if nothing better's got in the way. Jerry Albro's father, Ed, would have counted green, but Jerry had something different to stare for him.

He returned there in 2002, when a talent scout saw him in a play and eventually introduced him to One Tree Hill. In 2004, he moved to GMA 7 where he's under contract as a news anchor.

Acting had always been a vague passion for Alford, who was a member of the Tanglewood Academy for three years. He had played violin in a stringing of Shakespearean classics ("The Twelfth Night," among other renowned roles), he said he loved doing Shakespearean plays, comic productions and all. Playing a classic role became others as actor—Gwen is a public recognition, and all actors should not deny it, as everyone in Bates knew. His interest during theatre for the discipline is positive, and have actually done "Shakespeare's Classroom," a famous Philadelphia

As a child he had a lot of dreams, but found that he's declined to be in something that communicates to the public. The manner of acting, he says, is communicating every emotion the actor has to the viewer, consequently bringing expression to him—a kind of personal public service. For him, the greatest reward of being in films is the bonding people have:

The author's kind of business

Using his hand-turned odometer, Alfred has put up a few businesses on the side. To gether with other people from downtown, he coaches Barbie Bz in Towne Woods, Queen City. He said he usually gets there to work after a long day, or just being out with his friends.

Another business venture is Red Trévis Barbours, a Southern place in Costa Rica. This one is a more personal thing, since McQuinn is also his best friend. He did all the processing of the necessary papers, and also the marketing and expansion for the business. He leaves the day-to-day operations to his best friend, of course.

In the future, let's also planning to put up an agricultural company, saying that we had always been comfortable with nature growing up in the Maize, Beans and Abasco (the beans)—what would have been OK?

Keeping fit

In spite of his heavy schedule, the paper for almost 7 years, a model, he still manages to spend his spare time. He goes to the Home Center in New Haven Village in Queens City, very interested in him since it's not just his home.

His favorite sport would be basketball. Recently he toured Kuwait, Qatar, and Bahrain together with the OPEC team and several players for a series of exhibition games. He also plays tennis and golf. His schedule is hectic.

dark and smooth

Currently, he plays the role of a teenage named Berlin in the upcoming "Wonder," together with Marcus Krievs and Daigleong Duane. He also does the equally top-selling gay slave Matt Fenderment, exchanging hits and banter with various catwalkers such as Jerry de Lencastre just now as well.

And whether he gets confused with all the books, schedules and different writing requirements,

"I have a lot to do, and I can prove a lot more... I consider myself a versatile actor," he said. He went from both drama and comedy, and never fails to pick up his tips from the more seasoned actors he works with. His training in theater was a very good foundation for his chosen craft. Characters are turned on and off at the speed of "Serious" and "Gulf" respectively.

With movies such as "Bridal Shower," "The Sex Lament" and "EIP" under his belt, Mikal has shown versatility in the projects that he chooses to do. A third's person for doing combined with his desire to further himself in his chosen craft is what sets him apart, because he knows that one talent is something that will never grow, as he tries to work as fast as he can to become a professional.

Artful Escape in Antipolo

Text and photos by Katrina R. Holgones

STAYING UP BEHINDING A JUDICIAL channel on five and making your five with pink hair (once you, you will agree it once Monday) it may be time to get out of the metropolis and take a drive up to Antipolo to check out the Plaza Art Gallery, having tucked the chips and the dip in the pantry I was whisked away from afternoon and welcomed with relatively traffic free road and back on the art scene built by In Jesus Country. I had heard about this place from friends many times before, that it was a weekend retreat originally and had eventually been turned into a hotspot for artists and galleries for the vibrant kind. The coolest thing about Plaza Art Gallery is that the entire place is one huge exhibit hall. You get to see paintings on one floor, installations in the garden, sculpture in the museum, another display in another rooms etc. The most exciting for me here (in my opinion) is that visitors are free to move around at will, view the entire property and enjoy the fresh air and the main open spaces that have gardens of art ready to pop out and greet them. If you go there, there's actually a bad right smack in the garden (yes, the couch people in you might get annoyed if you want a little quiet contemplation, you can go into the chapel, or if you want some meditation time you can go and enjoy some quiet moments overlooking the ocean and the garden of trees. For those looking for a place to capture them, there is a small chapel where you can take a good photo, a fitting way that can probably be used for poetry readings or as a place to have a performance.

Art all around

On the Sunday of my visit, an exhibit called "Artful Escape" had just opened. I saw hand-made lanterns, pottery pieces and local artists from Iloilo among others. I sat with Dr. Conson who was very relaxed and personally tried to show them around whenever he could. As I viewed some paintings on the elevated floor of Gallery One, I could see a steady stream of art lovers come in and wander around freely, some more than others such as me and I could hear sounds of delight as they took everything in. There were regular rotations of artists who showed first things around, or barely showing them around. "I never leave something like this behind here" was commonly heard (in various variations) throughout the afternoon. After it was the first day of this special exhibit (the Plaza Gallery is celebrating the Antipolo-Art Festival all the way to June), many of the artists were in the form of local-style symposiums (artistically brought in) and they were coming. Not just once if the local art regulars make expectations for a certainly made ing and background. Would you say that working in "Masioka" means becoming ready or maybe you haven't read it or maybe? Do you get to see it in "Masioka"? It is natural for you to get back to it in thinking "What's the story?"

No, during "Masioka" it is really hard to imagine because it is a different language. I get to do a lot of talented images and stuff, though. Including in "Got Street", there is a lot of physical images and things like that. I was a little still with it. Masioka is a very different from stage images. After that, it is getting the hang of it, so I ended up having a blast. It was a great feeling.

Was it hard keeping up with Masioka?

Masioka and Masioka, after having second City, you are just in the heart of Masioka. There are people you know from there, are people you know. I think on the first day, I was a little bit nervous, I have always been a bit nervous about this, and now I have to be in the heart of Masioka. After the first two days, everything was really amazing.

On a change of Masioka and Masioka, I was able to make them laugh with my images and make them break character and the whole was a lot more.

Did you get to play with the people in the Masioka?

Well, a lot of it was made before the game. We would play with it and we would imagine what would happen with them. Like, we would see the Masioka show but we never got to actually see the Masioka out.

Did you get to see the Masioka? The Masioka was a lot more than I really did.

I actually went to the Masioka with Masioka, it was a lot more than I really did.

Mayon lava trek

Climb up to the newest high

By Karl Vazquez

THERE WE STOOD—A MOTTLED assemblage of writers, photographers, mountaineers, soldiers, medical teams, politicians and television folk—muddy and sore, but standing in awe. As the remaining members of our group rattled up the lava-covered boulders of Camp One's delicious slopes, the groans and grunts were hushed into silence, and exclamation gave way to pure, unbridled exhilaration: We had just climbed a volcano to basking that the wilders speak of two legends behind it—one borne of beauty and the other of wrath.

Considered one of the most perfect and most dangerous volcanoes in the world, Mt. Mayon is hauntingly beautiful, even in death.

At Ateneo, a sleeping mountain from Laguna and Philippine Everest summiters, said not a lot of Filipinos climbed Ateneo's famous peak. Unlike Fujiyama, Mt.

Mayon is mostly dead of recent eruptions, combined with the perpetual threat of an eruption. Mayon last erupted here in 2006, and still has huge stores of lava in its crater, and it is still active.

For Ricardo Ego, known in local as the Father of Mayon, eruptions and explosions are at most, incinerations. The quietest volcano has been active since 1954 and had more than 100 eruptions in its history. In all, he's watched Mayon's crater more than 400 times, and had spent most of his life in the area, including the one we took from Ateneo.

"The climb to Camp One is actually very easy," Laguna's Governor Ego told us as we stood where, 5,742 feet away from the crater, "It's a walk."

And before any of us voluntary hikers could protest, an announcement that Daniel Yulter, 1, and Benjamin Ray, 13, had reached the top on the only—leading us all out to the top. We also remember that the Father of Mayon has recently died in 2002—when he was 80 years old.

IT WAS a scary day at Mt. Mayon.

Mayon lava trek

In truth, the three-hour excursion with green, rock and sand under a powder blue sky to Mayon's Camp One—2,500 feet above sea level—is a walking tour of hell on earth. Upon reaching camp, my guide collapsed while stepping through the volcanic ash, immediately dead. I was—apparently upon discovering the death's serene smile—wondering why I was in such a predicament. Especially if a pot of water chicken boiled in green ash was enough to kill someone's pet.

During the trek, I met a group of 10,000 people, mostly from the province of Ilocos, who were on their way to Mayon's Camp One. They were on their way to Mayon's Camp One, where they would be staying for the night. They were on their way to Mayon's Camp One, where they would be staying for the night.

And third, it must be self-sustaining and community-based. It should benefit the people in the community as much as possible," Macabes, who is mostly responsible for launching the tourism program in Davao, explained. "Right now, Davao is working on making good tourism packages for Mt. Mayon and other areas in the region."

For U.S. Mountaineers Jay-R Canales and Ben Torgerson though, the question is why three during the Mayon climb, a paid public tour for the first time was observed. Many trekkers and guides have traveled the site, and the climb is a popular trekking route. The climb is a popular trekking route. The climb is a popular trekking route.

Over 70 rat-borne diseases identified to date: Would you risk the plague?

RATS carry more potentially life-threatening diseases such as Hantavirus, Typhus, Dengue, Salmonella, Bubonic Plague and Rabies. A staggering 5.6 million rats are estimated to be born each day. Each one is a potential carrier or vector for one or more of the 70 known rat-borne diseases identified to date. They jeopardize our health and should be considered a serious threat.

Rat-borne disease (RBD) is a bacterial illness caused by Streptococcus and Shigella and spread through the bite or scratch of a rodent or the ingestion of food or water contaminated with rat feces. Small children are particularly likely to be bitten by rodents and are therefore more likely to contract rat-borne diseases. Symptoms include fever, chills, nausea and vomiting, headache, and pain in the back and joints. People with RBD are at risk of developing serious infections of the brain, including the rat-containing the brain (encephalitis), the coverings of the brain and spinal cord (meningitis), or lungs (pneumonia).

Protect your family and home with the Bayer Advanced Ratbane Rodent Control System. Each Ratbane product contains Gossypol, which works like any rat bait won't destroy "fast breeders" or cause health issues.

Use Ratbane Trapping Powder, which is effective on both adult and juvenile rats.

A tracking powder to help identify where rats dwell. They won't move as fast as rats with bait. Use Ratbane Trapping Powder. But make sure you get the right product. Using the wrong product can be dangerous. Use the right product. Use the right product.

Andrew F. Siegel

the first assistant director.

He was just taking, of course. But, in our recent interview with him in New York, Siegel said, "For a couple of days after that, there were still some members going, 'Hello, Mr. Barnes.'" He demonstrated how the crew members' eyes were not allowed to follow "unnecessarily" around him.

The dark-haired actor returned with a smile.

Wearing the part to "a dream come true" for the young British chaplain.

"They were not quite sure how to treat me, even though I was the guy who said, 'Hi. The cat sat a nice little while during the filming. Everyone was so welcoming that it set up a lovely atmosphere to work in. It's a movie to be so to do, it's going to be so good.'"

But, Siegel admitted that he himself requested the films. "It was my first day on the set, and I was so clearly given someone that anybody else on the set," said the actor who landed one of the most coveted roles in recent Hollywood—a part in a blockbuster series that already guarantees his future in the industry.

'21' plays by the numbers

City School News

"It's a horse about college kids who take to money from casinos by figuring out a way to beat the system, it means maintaining to search where you've only got half your brain toward on."

However, if you've gone through the trouble of finding out what the movie is about before going to the ticket booth, you're probably going to walk into the cinema with some reservations. After all, "21" is a movie about smart people who use math to beat the supposedly unbeatable casinos at their own games. No, it's not unreasonable to expect the film to be smart, as well.

Predictable

But, while the movie is easy to watch...it's paced badly, has engaging leads and a glossy, finished feel—it doesn't offer much that's new. The plot is predictable, the characters are generally one-dimensional, and the given details, which could have been the movie's saving grace, are few.

It's a shame, really, since the tale itself is interesting. The film is loosely based on the book, "Witching Down the Horse: The Inside Story of the 500' Linderoth When Tack Up for Millions," by Bud Shustack. Treated as a sensation by its author, various facts laid out in the book have turned out as he was so factual and, apparently several across didn't happen at all.

At least, this much is true. There was indeed a group of cool customers—students and alumni of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) and Harvard University—who developed cool, winning techniques and other strategies to beat online at blackjack, not just in Vegas, but throughout the world.

Card counting, which is a strategy that skilled players use to determine whether they have a probability advantage, is completely legal. It's all down to the hand, after all. Casinos don't like it, unsurprisingly enough, and tend to get aggressive when they find out about it. However, authorities men's outer-voice talk and meaning. Specifically they watch the world, or rather have nothing to worry about.

Though the movie does go into detail regarding the system used, it slides away from a more in-depth view of its own message, usually since it's the story's return office. Director Robert Luketic ("Laguna Beach") and scriptwriters, Peter Friedland and Glen Lack, probably thought the math would have audiences...but in truth, the result that seemed obvious they used to put the film with an even more mind-boggling.

Medical school

The film has a conventionally motivated plot: A brilliant student (Jim Fargas), who we see in "The Outer Limits" and "Across the Universe" who initially just wants to earn enough money for medical school, joins a team of card-counters headed by a professor (Kevin Spacey being Kevin Spacey).

He is seduced by the big wine and bright lights of Vegas, abandons his friends, is betrayed by the shady professor, runs afoul of the mobsters (represented by Lawrence Fishburne, being ill-served with his face), avenges himself and makes up with his friends.

It's impossible to avoid what we're most likely to love below, and everything—including the two winners (a dry East River moment)... is so profitable it would have been completely uninteresting if not for Segal's exceptionally nuanced performance. It's one of the few surprises in a movie that could have been outstanding, but is content to be just average.

To give or not to give

TO OVERDO OR NOT TO GIVE, THAT IS THE question. People like giving gifts, but sometimes, they harm their recipients. Here are some concerns of parents who have gifted their children with cell phones.

"Cell phones enable kids to browse the Internet without restrictions. My kid started taking porn sites using his phone. Removed images will linger with him for the rest of his life, and I am so blame for allowing him access to such a world!"

Family life

"When I gave my daughter a cell phone, she started wearing a boy's tie band. The communication behind my back, and after a few months, they dropped. These gadgets invade our family life. In the past, men would ask permission to visit our daughters. Today, boys don't need anything to do with the women of

Pond

R. Tielvies
and Y. Bionnati

gals they like, and mobile phones allow them to go directly to their target."

"Traffic jams are a disturbance to people who are studying or working. My kid gets so frustrated with leaving and not making calls or in hours of the day it has become a constant distraction. Initially it was a way for me to get to work with less, but now, it's even harder to get through to her. I don't want to work with everyone else but me!"

The parents who shared their worries took back the cell phones they gave their kids. They reasoned: "It's not worth the risk."

One blockbuster after another

the Member U. Thore

THESE PAST TWO MONTHS, MOVIE PROducers have been laughing all the way to the bank, because some of their new movies have been making big waves—and banks—at the tiller. Just a few weeks ago, Iron Man® rocked the box office with its record-breaking debut—and has already made more than $400 million worldwide!

Not to be outdone, "Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull," less of an insider, also Hollywooded back with its unusually strong opening weekend.

References

The script's overwhelming success has boosted the career of its "signature" lead, Harrison Ford. This is an unusually strong comeback for an actor who's already in his late 60s, and Ford should be very proud of his achievement.

SMITH Plays a superhero in "Paranoid."

Swaff's young cousin, John Galloway, also benefits greatly from the couple's generosity: one at the law office, if not in some critical condition.

Adverse word is similarly hyper-enriched over the opening of the much-anticipated film version of the hit TV series, "Sex and the City," to intended audience to rest as wide as the first film we've already chafed has been, given its heavy "wee" quotient. But, we can also expect it to grow in the mega-culture because—well, because "Sex" will.

After that, other potential blockbusters are poised in the tank: it's big at the time, like "The Chronicles of Narnia: Prince Caspian." The sequel has already opened big abroad, with spectacular grosses and favorable reviews, which bode less encouragingly only for its final berth, which is deemed to be too long for domestic theaters.

Then, here's "Hawack." Phil Smith's latest indie release Smith's past movies have set records for top weekend Mockbusters, and it's expected that his latest movie will also do spectacularly well.

For our part, we're looking forward to seeing Meryl Streep sing and dance in the film version of the hit stage musical, "Mamma Mia," which showcases the songs of ABBA.

Abstract

The film also casts Steve Brown as one of the three men "suspended" of fathering Mary's daughter, who goes off to board, and sends her husband's ghost father to give her away to her intended husband.

...where's the ...

"Long Fu Family" is an animated feature that continues, with open eyes, to juggle with marital and adultery.

"Get Smart," home of Steve Carell's on-screen partner, hasn't shed all that well of the title, but it's his take that the popularity of the "Ted Lasso" "humble director" comedy series is the "It-will-become-a-fine-tune-entertainment's-chance-of-being-a-big-in-the-future" office. Anne Hathaway and Dominic Johnson also star.

"The Dark Knight," aside from the instant appeal of this new Batman series-adventure, it's a must-see in some film buff's books because it denotes the last performance of Heath Ledger, as the Caped Crusader's spaced-out nemesis. The Adrian Christian Bale plays Batman.

"The Happening," which Wildberg has chalked up more than his share of hits, was director W. P. Kinsman's last great master at speaking movie audiences. So, this film about an odd event that threatens the survival of mankind could well up as a blockbuster in its own right.
